CAREER OBJECTIVE

I am looking to embark on a career in web development following my successful completion of the University of New Hampshire Coding Bootcamp. Prior to the completion of this academically rigorous course work I was a public school teacher of high school students at Manchester High School - West. I taught for the previous 10 years in a number of mathematics, music, and special education programs. Additionally, for the past 10 years I have taught string instruments to primary school and higher education students. My academic background is in music performance, and I continue this work in a number of orchestras. Over the years I have demonstrated a tenacity in learning, especially self-guided learning, and am very quick to pick up new and complex topic areas to include technical, mathematical, instrumental, and linguistics fields.
